

Abstract

In a constitution where, when a cam sensor is failed, a present value of cylinder discrimination value is estimated from a previous value to continue a control for each cylinder, if an engine is rotated in reverse at an engine stop and also fuel is burned during the reverse rotation, the control for each cylinder based on the cylinder discrimination value estimated based on the previous value is prohibited.